“The best part about being a music teacher is you get to go back the next day and do more and better for your students.”

— Dr. Alice M. Hammel, Instructor
Music Education, James Madison University

“You should consider a career in music education because it is an unabashed love of one of the most moving and expressive art forms that exists paired with the incredible and unique opportunity to shape and touch the future.”

— Jared L. Cassidy, M.Ed.
K-12 Performing Arts Coordinator
LHS Wind Ensemble Director
Lexington Public Schools

“The next generation of young people needs to understand that no matter where they are, they can always set their sights on a career as an educator.”

—Veronica Jackson, Orchestra Director
Alexandria High School, Adjunct Professor
George Mason University

“My goal as a music educator is to instill a love of learning and music in my students. Through music education, I hope to help students connect with each other and themselves, as well as have a way to express themselves and be creative in a positive way.”

—Kaitlyn Purcell
Music Education and Performance Major
University of Louisville

“There is no joy like seeing a child love music! Anyone can sing or play an instrument, but a child who has fun and feels safe in the music classroom carries that with them for the rest of their lives.”

—Claire Jones, Music Education Major
Christopher Newport University
